TRAVELING ALABAMA

By Jim Hart

Alabama's Natural Bridge

Many states claim a natural bridge of one type or the other but Alabama's Natural Bridge in Winston County, without any doubt, is "king" of them all. Billed as the "Longest Rock Span East of the Rockies," Natural Bridge, Alabama, is truly one of our great wonders.

I recall tales about a natural bridge which crosses the Chipola River in Jackson County, Florida, and how Andrew Jackson used it on his journey from victory in New Orleans to Florida's East Coast and the establishment of Jacksonville and how these stories left me wide-eyed and enthused about this relatively small bit of rock. However, when I had the opportunity to visit the Natural Bridge in northwest Alabama the importance of this heretofore historic bridge in Florida sank into significance. It is impressive and beautiful to say the least!

A weekend trip to this historic link with the past provides the entire family with a chance to enjoy something together. As you approach Natural Bridge, amid trees and flowering mountain shrubs, lilies and ferns, your feet will cover paths paved with pebbles that have been washed smooth and thin by the action of waves millions of years ago when the sea covered the area. Wild hydrangeas brighten the landscape and there are 27 varieties of ferns found around the base of the great Natural Bridge. Many of them are rare specimens. There are two spans to this bridge. The largest is 148 feet long, 35 feet wide and 8 feet thick in its thinnest part.

Much of the beauty of this area is found in the trees which grow there. There is much to photograph and many picnic tables along with ample free parking for visitors.

How do you get there? Follow Alabama Highway 5 just 10 miles south of Haleyville, or ask your local service station operator for a map.

The kindest are those who forgive and forget.

A race horse. An animal that can take several thousand people for a ride at the same time. Marriage: The result of a man getting hooked with his own line.

Rose Has Given Birth To Legends
No flower has given birth to more legends than the rose. It has been said that Cybele created the rose, but when angry with Venus, she took revenge by bringing to life something more beautiful than the Goddess of Beauty herself.

It is believed that the rose originated in Central Asia. Of the many roses which originated in that region, only a few have contributed to our modern types. The most outstanding of these are China Rose (Rosa chinensis), the Damask Rose (Rosa centifolia), Rose of Provins (Rosa gallica), and a more important ancestor than these is Rosa odorata, the Chinese rose, which was brought to England in 1810 and probably became the parent of the original tea roses, introducing the character of perpetual flowering, which was largely lacking in the varieties introduced prior to this time.

The yellow rose, whose ancestor was the Persian Yellow (Rosa foetida) was known for over four thousand years, but did not come into its own until Pernet Boucher, a French hybridist, produced the famous "Soleil d'Or" and, from it, was developed the first really yellow rose, called "Yellow O'Or" in 1919.

The climbing roses followed from crosses of R. odorata and R. gigantea, climbing species from Southern China) together with injection of the Musk Rose (R. moschata) blood. And one of the finest groups ever to be introduced was our present day Hybrid Polyanthas, which evolved from crosses of hybrid Texas and Polyanthas and was called "Floribunda." In this group, "Betty Prior," "Frensham," and "Improved LaFayette" are considered excellent for our area. Mass plantings of Betty Prior have proven particularly effective at Galloway Gardens. The modern Floribunda are of moderate growth, free flowering, hardy, and disease resistant. They give a maximum effect with minimum of labor. They may even be used as cut flowers or disbudded to one flower to each stem.

The Hybrid Teas, the other important group, are used for garden effects and, in particular, for cut flowers. The shape of the bloom is important as well as the size - three to four inches across when half open, regular in shape with overlapping petals in a spiral manner, high in the center. Usually, good varieties have at least six rows of petals. The ideal plant is one which rarely gets over 4 feet high. A variety that does should be classed with flowering shrubs. Well colored foliage, high resistance to disease and frost hardiness are other desired characteristics of good hybrid Teas.

Fragrance is still very much a part of today's rose. Actually, our modern roses are just as sweetly scented as their ancestors of grandmother's days. If not more so. Ranked high and the two top roses of 1964 - Granada and Saratoga. "Granada," a hybrid Tea with the novel multicoloring of nasturtium, scarlet and lemon yellow, has a spicy penetrating fragrance typical of the so-called "old fashioned" roses. "Saratoga," which is pure white Floribunda, was singled out for its rich and heady old damask rose scent. Both of the above named roses are All-America Rose Selections for 1964, which home gardeners can plant for the first time this Spring.

Another exceptional rose with great promise is Crimson Duke, created by Meiland, of Peace Rose fame. It is red, large, double flowered, vigorous, with little fading of color and excellent lasting quality.

The place to witness the performance of many of the new rose varieties is in the many city gardens, local nurseries, which have exhibition grounds and the Public All-American Rose Gardens available throughout the state. The Galloway Gardens, Pine Mountain, Georgia, has the new varieties on display in its greenhouse area near the Chapel. Under such conditions, an opportunity is presented of seeing the new introductions in action before investing and placing of reliance on the written word.

Alabamians Urged To Help Bring Famous Old Lady Home

Life underwriters in Elba and from throughout Coffee County have joined forces to try to save a "life". They are going to try to save one of Alabama's most famous old ladies from being sent to the junkpile.

Along with other insurance men from throughout the state, they are collecting funds to keep the USS Battleship Alabama from being sent to the scrapheap, and to bring her home to Alabama where she will be part of a memorial to all of the men and women from Alabama who served in all wars.

If their efforts succeed and if others through-out the state give them the help they will need, the USS Battleship Alabama will be brought home and placed in the new memorial park on the Causeway in Mobile.

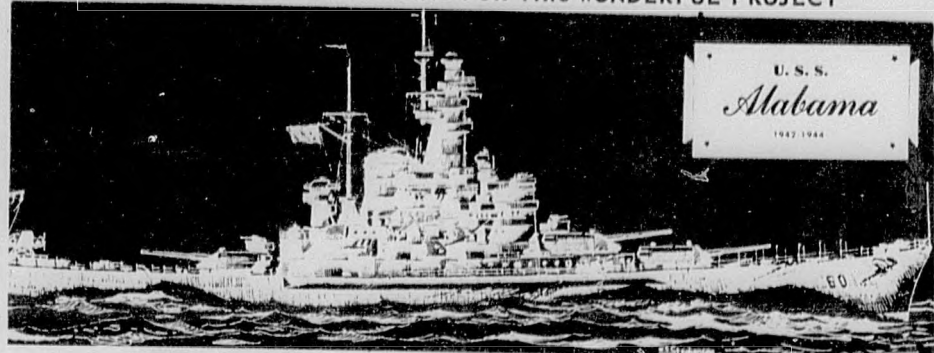

The underwriters have taken it upon themselves to help raise the money that will be needed to tow the 40,000-ton warrior from the Bremerton Navy Yard at Puget Sound, Washington, to Mobile Bay. The Alabama Association of Life Underwriters has agreed to spearhead the fund-raising project and all local and county underwriters are doing their part.

Industry Week Now In Progress

Governor George Wallace has issued an official proclamation designating the week of April 27 through May 2 as Alabama Industry Days.

Governor Wallace's proclamation stated that the great industrial growth of this state in recent years has resulted in national recognition as a cooperative effort on the part of all the people.

He further declared that "all the people in varied occupations including industry, agriculture, the press, professional groups and other workers have made this vast industrial progress possible."

With the theme of "What Alabama Makes - Makes Alabama", Chairman Robert E. Schooley challenges every citizen to take advantage of this opportunity to become better informed about the industries in his local community that help develop a greater State and improve the welfare and standard of living of all the people.

The Alabama Junior Chamber of Commerce, the State Planning and Industrial Development Board, the Alabama Broadcasters Association, Auburn University, the Alabama Press Association, the University of Alabama, the Alabama Association of Independent Colleges and Associated Industries of Alabama are teamed together to tell the people of Alabama what private industry means to their community and State.

Arts Festival Extends Invitation

Residents of Elba and Coffee County this week were invited to participate in activities planned during the next three weeks by the Navy. Governor Wallace emphasizes that time is short, as the drive to raise the $1 million must be completed as soon as possible in order to meet a Navy deadline.

It is going to cost approximately $300,000 to tow the battleship from Bremerton to Mobile, the way of the West Coast and the Panama Canal and through the Gulf of Mexico to Mobile. Then it will cost approximately $500,000 to dredge and create the land for the Memorial Park. It will cost approximately $75,000 to paint the battleship and dress her up a bit, and another $100,000 will be necessary for operating expenses for the first year. After that time, it will be self-sustaining.

Tips For Those Who Buy Started Pullets

Many Alabama egg producers buy started pullets ready to lay. This often saves money and makes for efficient production because the producer's time and capital are used to specialize in egg production.

"How and under what conditions started pullets are bought is important," says Jim Hubbard, Extension Poultryman. "Shop around and study strain performance records from random sample tests as well as from actual farm reports. Buying started pullets economically means you must pay about $1.65 to $2 each, depending on their age."

The Auburn University specialist also advises producers to know the grower, his vaccination program, his lighting program, feeding program, and how he cared for the birds. This should insure the poultrymen's chances of getting a good started pullet performance.

Presentations, at Festival Hall on the square in downtown Troy are arts and crafts exhibits created by citizens and students of Troy, Troy State College, and the area. This first showing will continue through April 30, Festival Hall is open free of charge each day, and a morality play to be produced in various church sanctuaries in Troy. Other events will be announced.

During Festival Week, May 3-12, art and religious activities are scheduled for each day.

Events planned include: arts and crafts creations by members of art departments in Alabama colleges and universities; a special mystery exhibit from New York City, and Episcopal mass using the liturgy in folk music; Collegiate and College choir singers in concert; modern dance recital; lectures on art and aesthetics; discussions on literature; a play production of HAMLET in modern English; and a morality play to be produced in various church sanctuaries in Troy. Other events will be announced.

In Coffee County as in most all Alabama counties, the Probate Judge also serves as Judge of the Juvenile Court. This is one of the most important and most complex duties of the Probate Judge. Here he is dealing not only with the young people, their families and the community but with their future as well. This calls for patience, understanding and respect for the individual combined with a real desire to help to redirect lives into channels which will enable them to achieve some measure of success and happiness and to make some contribution to society.

"Progress Through Service"

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE

BY MRS. ROBERT CAMMON

THE SOCIAL EVENT of the season will take place Sunday when the Country Club holds its gala opening. In one way it seems we have waited a long, long time for this day and yet it seems slightly miraculous that the possibility of a club was still a dream only last August. At two-thirty of May 3d the two hundred and forty four members will officially open their clubhouse.

The club itself is quite decorative. The interior walls are tinged with green which is a nice foil for the walnut paneling of the entry. Here one will find a long rattan bench with gaily colored cushions. This walnut finish, is used for watching the play of golf on the golf course. The sofa cushions are done in olive green and the chairs are companion prints with traces of white and gold to offset the rich green.

In the dining room are walnut topped tables with mates' chairs at side. All of this dark finished furniture is framed by the parchment draperies that were designed by Mary Oswald (Dowling) Kowe who is an interior decorator in Birmingham. The chandeliers are those lovely round globes in antique finish reminiscent of the ice cream parlour of yesterday.

The "Teen Room" sports brilliant federal blue and emerald green card tables whose folding chairs are done in a print of these colors. The lovely thought behind these table groupings is that they are unharmed by weather and can be used outside on the patio when the youngsters need more space for dancing.

This is the decorative picture the committee has created. All the pieces are in place except the rattan which should arrive any day. And we think they deserve a standing ovation. The swimming pool is going to be a popular feature of the club and its elaborate filter system will keep it nice. The patio will be a nice place for conversation and for watching the play of golf on the golf course. The separate bathhouse beside the pool is a feature we find particularly nice and one that will eliminate much wear and tear on the main clubhouse.

In the change of all this is Ray Corley, a most congenial gentleman whose brother Cecil Corley is one of Elba's nicest people. Ray and his wife have just moved here, having previously lived in Georgia and South Carolina. Mr. Corley promises delectable food and fine party fare, so, ladies, get out your party frocks. Working with him is Lomax Sasser, whose pride and joy is the golf course.

THE JUNIOR SENIOR PROM last Friday was one of the prettiest scenes we have been privileged to see. The undersea palace of King Neptune was done in pink, complete with turrets and towers and covered one end of the gym. A giant clam opened its pink and white shell to frame a wrought iron throne. Fish net hung from the side walls and caught unwary creatures in its folds while overhead moved waves of blue crepe paper. A reflecting pool was the playground for a babbling brook and the anchors of wrecked sailing ships stood trapped by sand and time. It was a real salute to the seniors who entered this fantasy land thru an eerie moss hung cave.

After the prom, Carol Proctor entertained the entire group at a breakfast at her home from midnight until two A. M. Ann Proctor, who receives our medal for "bravest Mother of the year", had set a long table with dainty crystal and china, a lovely lace.

The Andalusia District Officers met with Mary Annie Benton, president of the district, in executive council prior to the official opening of the day's events. These ladies are named under their picture and will be familiar to many, especially Mrs. J. B. Nichols of Andalusia, wife of our District Superintendent.

At the same time a coffee was being held in the Men's Bible Class and we pictured all the local ladies on hand at that time. Included were Peggy Devane and Sammy Morrow who planned the coffee; Anise Brazleton, district officer, Ruth Anderson who supervised the luncheon; Betty Cox who planned the entire day; Pat Williams who had used her artistry to clothe the church in flowers; Pat Carter, wife of our minister; and Mary Alice Lee who greeted the guests.

Mrs. John Garrett was especially introduced as the "First Lady of the Elba Woman's Society". She is a charter member of the organization and is still active, setting a record for attendance that few of us can match. It was interesting to meet and talk with Mrs. L. H. Strawbridge of Brewton who is the aunt of Ralph Hendricks, our former pastor. She and Miss Lillie Hendricks, who is a retired deaconess and a lovely, fragile lady called Ralph's aunt were the object of much attention. One of the sub-districts in the Andalusia District has been named for Miss Lillie.

The featured speaker of the day was Miss Lorraine Buck, a retired missionary to Cuba who was cute and vivacious and completely charming. She told in delightful detail of her work before Castro and of what the churches are doing in Miami to help the 170,000 Cuban refugees. THE ANNUAL FISHING ROdeo sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce is now set for May 20th thru 24th on Luke Lorene and of May fourth. The time is the prizes will be just as 7:30 and a charge of fifty cents will be made for adults. We spent an interesting few minutes in conversation with the chairman of standards as well as the Rodeo who revealed a originality of the fishing costume she has devised.

PUT the date May 19th on your social calendar and plan to attend the Jack and Jill Kindergarten graduation at seven-thirty. Caroline Stokes will direct her young pupils in a play "A May Day Party in Mother Goose Land". However, what we want to see is this group square dancing!

THE DAY the Elba Methodist Church hosted the Andalusia District Annual Meeting will direct her young pupils in a play "A May Day Party in Mother Goose Land". However, what we want to see is this group square dancing!

The day began with organ music by Jim Paternos who quite graciously gave the entire day to providing inspirational music, a fact deeply appreciated by all of us. During the Memorial Service David Carter sang "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" by Handel from his most popular work, "Messiah". And so the tone was set.

We are grateful to Betty Roberts, the Clipper's cute young photographer who provided us with many of the scene shots. It was impossible to get everybody, but there were particular reasons for each group pictured. Thusly, Serving as acolytes were Christina Cooper, daughter of the pastor, and her sister, Bancroft and Donis and granddaughter of long time Missionary Society supporter Mrs. Neil Cooper and Deborah Easters, daughter of Douglas and Mrs. Easters, also a loyal worker in this area. In their white robes and dresses we thought they looked entirely angelic as they lighted the altar candles.

To The Citizens Of Coffee County

During the past several years, since you entrusted me with the duties and responsibilities of serving you as Probate Judge, there has been considerable growth in the funds coming in to Coffee County. It naturally follows that the duties of your Probate Judge in this respect have become more complicated and considerably heavier. I feel that you will agree, in view of this fact, that an experienced and well qualified man is needed to properly handle the offices of your Probate Judge in an efficient and businesslike manner. I do hope that my past services have properly qualified me to merit the honor of continuing to serve you in this position.

It would give me much satisfaction to be able to see each voter personally and discuss my campaign. However, if due to the fact that I must spend considerable time carrying on the duties of your offices, I have failed to see you, please be assured that I am most interested in your opinion and your comments. The doors to these offices are always open to you-your family-and your friends.

I will deeply appreciate your vote, and your influence, in my campaign to be re-elected to serve you as Probate Judge of our growing county for another term.

Yours very sincerely,

J. Oscar English

purchased. To show the confidence this group had, the land was purchased prior to the membership drive.

Robert Cannon and Lewey Stephens volunteered their legal services and a corporation was formed and stock was sold. This was really the crucial period to see exactly how many people would support this project. The unbelievable happened! Two hundred and forty-four members were signed up in less than 30 days. Every one became a "recruiter."

After much consideration and long hours of planning, the clubhouse committee developed the plans for the clubhouse. This committee was further divided into two other sub-committees, kitchen equipment and clubhouse furniture. The contract was let and construction was begun on the clubhouse.

The golf committee went to work in clearing the land for the nine-hole golf course. This was done by hand, machinery and any other means available. It would be impossible to describe the work that had to be done on this project and the endless hours of work donated. At present all fairways are cleared, green and tees are shaped and ready for planting, which will be done in May. It is anticipated that the course can be played on by the middle of the summer. Each tee and green has an automatic sprinkling system installed.

The fish pond covering approximately seven acres also had to be cleared of timber, and many people noons working on this. At present the lake is over half full and is stocked with 7,500 brook trout. Bass will be added shortly. The water from the lake will provide water for sprinkling each green and tee on the golf course.

The swimming pool is one of the finest in south Alabama. It measures 82 feet long and 45 feet wide with a 12 x 12 foot wading pool. The pool is equipped with a filter system that will completely filter all the water every 8 hours. There is also an automatic vacuum cleaner which prevents any leaves or other debris from remaining on the surface. Qualified life guards will be on duty at the pool and night swimming will be done as there are five 400 watt lights under water.

Under construction is two double tennis courts which will be lighted for night play.

Sony stated that clubhouse rules and swimming pool rules will be mailed to each member this week. He further requested that each member read carefully these rules and abide by them.

The Board of Directors have employed Roy Corley as Club Manager who will direct the operation of the clubhouse, kitchen, and the swimming pool. Corley states that we have the most modern, up-to-date kitchen equipment that can be found in any large restaurant or club anywhere in this area.

Lomax Sasser has been employed as the "Green Keeper" and will also operate the golf pro shop. Both Sasser and Corley are experts with many years of experience in their field.

Space would not permit all the names of those who worked, worried and added their time and efforts to this project.

Now the great day is at hand! Formal opening of the Elba Country Club will be Sunday afternoon, 3 May 1964. The club will be closed each Monday and will be open for business on 5 May 1964.

is the Probate Judge office, County Commissioners, Sup. of Education, and Circuit Clerk. Another race creating a lot of commotion is the Presidential. Electors have been pledged and unpledged candidates.

Voters in Elba, New

Backton and Enterprise will vote by voting machines. Many voters have already been instructed as to the operation of the machines. This instruction is available at any time at the courthouse. But if such instructions have not been received before election day voters will be helped at the voting booths on election day if needed. The operation of the voting machines is very simple and anyone can operate them with very little instructions.

subject to be Bobby Kennedy.

The "un-pledged" electors have said that if they are nominated they will cast Alabama's electoral votes for a Democrat but they do not promise that it is a sure thing that it will be for the nominees of the National Democratic Convention, though they can vote that way if the candidates are acceptable along with a platform the South can stomach. The unpledged electors will not reach a definite decision until they know who the nominees are and the platform that is adopted. The Democratic nominees will face the Republican nominees in the general election in November. If the Republican electors win Alabama in the general election, Alabama will go to the Republican nominee. If the unpledged electors are elected in the general election they will have the power to withhold Alabama's ten elector votes from the nominee of the National Democratic Party if the president, vice-president and platform adopted is against the South as it has been for many years.

I have always voted for pledged electors and I have always voted for the nominee of the Democratic Party, but I will not be doing so this time. We have been betrayed and I see no change in eight of it being otherwise. This time I will cast my vote for the "un-pledged" electors: Jim Allen, Edmund Blair, Albert P. Brewer, Albert H. Evans, Jr., McDonald Gallion, Jack Giles, Art Hines, Pete Mathews, Frank Mize and I. J. "Bud" Scott.

You will find a list of the pledged and the unpledged elector candidates in display advertisements in this issue of this newspaper. Study them and decide as to what you think is best for all of us. There should be no reason for anyone to vote contrary to how they really feel. There is a cut and dried list on both sides. If you want to vote for the pledged and things to continue as they are now, there is a list you can clip and take to the polls with you. And there is a list of the unpledged electors that I'm hoping you will take and vote that way. I believe we will have a much better chance of being recognized from a national standpoint if we endorse the unpledged electors.

It is my prediction that Alabama will endorse all the un-pledged electors by a big majority.

Drive-In Has New Owner

Fred T. McLendon, President McLendon-Connet Theatres, announces the purchase of the Dixieland Drive In Theatre, in Elba, Alabama, from George S. Owens. McLendon, together with his associates, M.A. Connet and Phillip Richardson, operate a total of 48 theatres in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, and North Carolina.

The new owners promise many new innovations, including the most modern of concession equipment, new and decorative painting, new modern box office and attraction board, the finest and most up to date sound equipment, and a new screen which boasts to be one of the largest in this section of the state. Thirty-four years in the operation of motion picture theatres, by the McLendon-Connet Circuit, assure its patrons the finest in entertainment, comfort, courtesy and pleasant surroundings.

Ralph B. Mann, District Manager of the Theatre Circuit, announced the re-opening of the Dixieland Drive In Theatre in last week's Clipper. Robert D. Mann will serve as manager of the Dixieland.

It is my prediction that Alabama will endorse all the un-pledged electors by a big majority.

Faculty Holds Final In-Service Training Program

The Elba Elementary School Faculty met for the final In-Service Training Program on April 9.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Reverend David Carter.

"Code of Conduct For Our School In Public Areas" was the subject for the afternoon meeting.

Mrs. Violet Rainer acted as moderator for a panel, consisting of Reverend David Carter, Mrs. Doris Pinckard, Mrs. Jo Ann Rainer, Miss Lillian Morris and Mrs. Herbert Whatley.

Mrs. Rainer brought before the panel the following question: "What may we expect of our children?" She answered this question with remarks from James Plant and Louis Nizer, who have explored this field of thought.

Reverend Carter spoke on "Our Attitudes and Code of Conduct in Our Churches."

Mrs. Pinkard discussed "Code of Conduct in Our Homes."

Mrs. Jo Ann Rainer gave an interesting newly published article, "Please, If You Please," and Mrs. Herbert Whatley, introduced by Miss Lillian Morris, talked on "Code of Conduct for Our Theatre."

Evaluation of the years work followed the panel presentations.

Jasmine Hill Gardens

A lifetime of work and an unusual talent for separating the truly great works of art from the bare imitations have led to the development of what today is an inspiring place of beauty. I am referring to the work of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fitzpatrick, owners of Jasmine Hill Gardens which are located between Montgomery and Wetumpka off Highway 231. Jasmine Hill is alive with blooms almost every month of the year but during the spring and early summer it is, perhaps, the most beautiful. Many visitors have said it is the most unique garden of its kind in the Southeast. Only rarely does a person have the opportunity to enjoy such an array of flowers, shrubs and trees intermingled with ancient statuary of marble and stone. I'm told that the Fitzpatricks traveled annually to Greece and Italy for 20 years to gather these exotic and ancient pieces of history. They are all breathtakingly displayed for everyone to enjoy. Visitors are invited to tour Jasmine Hill Gardens at no charge. Should you desire to make a contribution to the statuary and with this your appreciation of Jasmine Hill is multiplied many times. Here are a few of the things you can see: The Temple of Hera, an exact copy of what remains of one of the oldest Greek Temples located at Olympia in one of the sacred precincts of Greece; statues of maidens of the Acropolis; a copy of the original piece which dates back to the 4th Century, B.C., and the Dying Gaul, a mortally wounded warrior supporting himself on one arm just before succumbing to his wounds. There are many more plus the exciting beauty of thousands of blossoms of all colors.

Sometime this spring or summer plan a trip to Jasmine Hill Gardens and be sure to have your camera loaded with plenty of color film so the trip can be enjoyed over and over again. Pick up an Alabama highway map from your local service station and ask for direction.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of the Alabama Association of the State of Alabama.

Tranquilizers

About 10,000 people become chronic mental hospital patients each year, spending up to fifty years as in-patients. One out of twelve of the population will require mental hospital care at some time during his life. The encouraging fact, however, is that a patient who enters a mental hospital for the first time has an 80 per cent chance of being discharged within a year. Even schizophrenics have a fifty-fifty chance of being discharged within a year but, after a year, the prospect of leaving the mental hospital diminishes.

There are some new tranquilizing drugs which have a place in modern psychiatry as symptomatic therapy. These drugs are popular and extensively used in mental hospitals. Such tranquilizing drugs bring about sedation without hypnosis or danger of addiction. They generally calm down excitement, reduce the need for seclusion rooms, benefit ward atmosphere, and build the morale of nurses and attendants. They do not cure and cannot allay excitement in each and every case; nor can they take the place of psychotherapy, with its attendant insulin shock or electroshock treatment.

The new tranquilizers have no curative benefit for personality disorders such as criminalism, alcoholism, and drug addiction, but there is value in tranquilizers for the acutely excited or chronically agitated mental patient. Neither can tranquilizers be expected to reduce the number of schizophrenics who will enter hospitals in the future.

A man may tell many times that he won't be a failure until he says somebody pushed him.

To The PEOPLE Of Coffee COUNTY

During the past weeks I have made every effort to see you, and to discuss with you my candidacy for re-election as Circuit Clerk. However, since several sessions of the Circuit Court had previously been set which required my attendance, and because of the time devoted to the other duties of the office it has not been possible for me to see each of you. I take this means to tell you that I will deeply appreciate your vote for this office.

I have always worked conscientiously, honestly and faithfully to serve you, and in considering my candidacy I invite your attention to my record during the time I have served as your Circuit Clerk. This record may be examined in the form of reports of the Department of Examiners of Public Accounts of the State of Alabama, which are on file in the office of the Circuit Judge and in the office of the Circuit Clerk. If you re-elect me I shall continue to use the knowledge gained by my experience in this office to serve you efficiently.

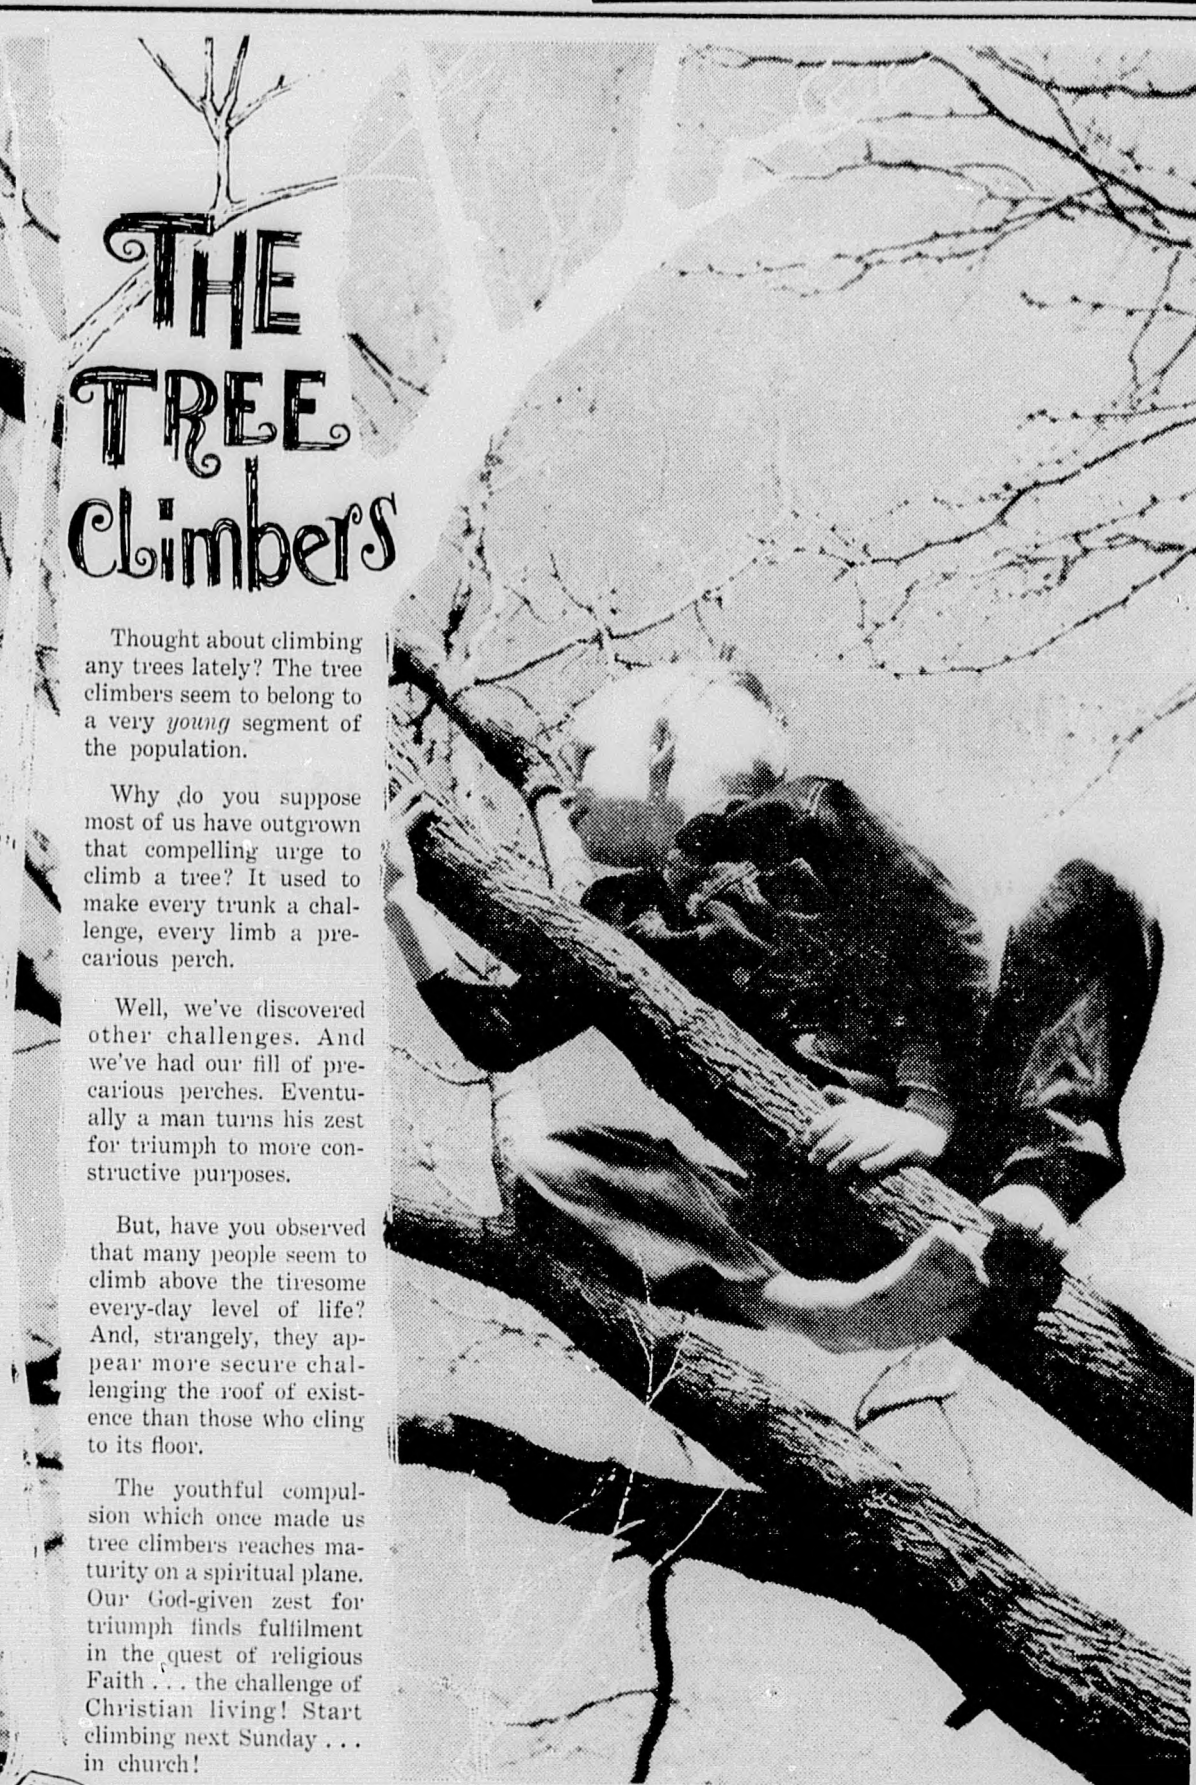

It has always been my pleasure to work with you as Circuit Clerk and I will always be deeply appreciative of my association with the people of our fine County and the honor that you have bestowed upon me in letting me serve as your Circuit Clerk in the past. I sincerely hope that I may have the privilege to continue to serve you.

I humbly solicit your vote and influence.

Yours sincerely,

Gladys Clark

THE TREE Climbers

Thought about climbing any trees lately? The tree climbers seem to belong to a very young segment of the population.

Why do you suppose most of us have outgrown that compelling urge to climb a tree? It used to make every trunk a challenge, every limb a precarious perch.

Well, we've discovered other challenges. And we've had our fill of precarious perches. Eventually a man turns his zest for triumph to more constructive purposes.

But, have you observed that many people seem to climb above the tiresome every-day level of life? And, strangely, they appear more secure challenging the roof of existence than those who cling to its foot.

The youthful compulsion which once made us tree climbers reaches maturity on a spiritual plane. Our God-given zest for triumph finds fulfillment in the quest of religious Faith... the challenge of Christian living! Start climbing next Sunday... in church!

Highlights Of Post Office Department's Six Point Program . . .

As part of its six-point program to reduce mail delays and damage, the Post Office Department announced it is assigning additional employees to week end shifts in major post offices.

The order -- providing handling at the post office within 24 hours for third class mail (circulars, advertisements, samples, announcements, some photographs, records, films, etc.) -- will affect mostly clerical employees in the 4,363 first class post offices (those with annual receipts of $40,000 or more).

The Department said careful studies showed the order will prevent backlog and congestion due to lack of space, provide a balanced workload for delivery employees and insure more efficient use of manpower.

It should also prevent such mail piling up in post offices over the week end and being delivered in large batches on a Tuesday or Wednesday, after processing on Monday.

The hours affected are 4 to 6 p.m. on Saturdays and all day Sunday. Only a very limited quantity of third class mail has been worked at those times--all other mail is.

Other highlights of the six-point program -- announced March 21 and now being given top priority for all of the more than 34,000 post offices are:

1. Increased emphasis on error-checking process under which local clerks who sort bundles of incoming mail make out slips indicating the sorting errors which they find in the bundles, enabling officials to more effectively trace errors in mail routing and eliminate them.

2. More sorting breakdowns of mail at the point of origin rather than sending many unsorted loads of mail forward to be sorted at other points along the way.

3. Frequent checks on local collection and delivery points so that little-used street letter boxes are moved to points where deposits are heavier and where the boxes will do the most good.

4. Establishment of more careful inspection of mail bags used in post offices to detect mail that may be accidentally left inside.

5. Surveys at local levels of incoming air, rail and truck transportation schedules so that there can be closer coordination of transportation and home or business delivery.

The Department said the step was taken in view of urgent work demands and requirements to move increasingly heavy quantities of mail--increasing about 2 billion pieces annually to the present 70 billion.

Much of the third class mail, which has some value, such as a sale announcement by a local store, Trade sources estimate third class mailers send about $2 billion dollars worth of mail annually -- and that such mail generates about $28 billion in sales.

Some 5 million Americans are said to be employed in industries and businesses relying primarily or largely on third class mail.

On April 20, some 125,000 letter carriers began delivering ZIP Code identifications to every home and business address on their appointed rounds. The reverse side of this notice explains how the system works, also why the Office Department needs ZIP Code to cope with its annual volume of mail, amounting to 70 billion pieces and climbing at the rate of two billion a year.

ZIP Code "is just as vital to modern postal progress in the small towns as it is in the big cities," Postmaster W. L. Stephens, of Kinston, said today. He also wishes to advise that the ZIP Code number for Kinston, Alabama is 36453, if you live, en route served by you from this office your ZIP code number is also 36453 and you are urged to use this number in all your correspondence.

For instance take a magazine that many of you subscribe to. Each month certain magazine mails out from Dayton, Ohio, a total of 12 1/2 million copies to 35 states, including our state of Alabama. Kinston, Alabama receives more than 100 of this particular magazine each month.

Without this ZIP Code you might be getting this magazine a week late. But since they are now presorting the magazine to its ZIP Code address, it is shipped directly to our Sectional Center which is Evesham.

Posture Queen Contest To Be Held In May

Doctor D. E. Durbin, Chairman of the Alabama Posture Queen Contest and Postural Fitness Committee, has announced that the state finals of the Alabama Posture Queen Contest will be held in Montgomery on May 29th and 30th. The contest is sponsored by the Chiropractic profession in the interest of better health through correct posture.

Prior to the state finals, district contests in twenty Alabama cities will narrow competition from several hundred young ladies to one district queen in each area. District contests are held in April and May and are sponsored by Civitan, Lions, Business and Professional Women, Exchange and other Civic groups.

Prizes valued at several thousands of dollars will be awarded winners of district contests and the state queen. State contest winners receive gifts valued at over two thousand dollars, including a five hundred dollar scholarship to the Alabama College of the winners choice, expense paid vacations, savings bonds, travel, a chance at the World Posture Queen title in Denver, Colorado, and other prizes.

The two days of state

The dictionary is the only place where success comes before work.

When a man finds no peace within himself, it is useless to seek it elsewhere.

So live that you help to answer the world's problems - not add to them.

If you are sensible, you will not fear the day you've never seen.

Temper gets you into trouble. Pride keeps you there. Luck is always against the man who depends on it.
